WRMC to Broadcast Again With UA Grant, New System

By BARBARA MILLER

WRMC, College radio station, will resume operations in approximately three weeks with the aid of a $500 gift from the Undergraduate Association.

UA voted 29-2 last Wednesday to donate the sum to insure the station's financial stability.

Peter Talbott '59, WRMC president, assured the UA council that $500 would enable the student radio station to pay bills outstanding to the amount of $250 and to install essential equipment costing $175. The balance of the grant will be banked as the beginning of a fund to repay a debt of $1000 owed the College.

With the help of Lester Ganson, amateur radio operator from Vergennes, and the Middlebury Mike and Key Club, a trial line for the new system will be run to Stewart and Hepburn. Before the line is extended to other dorms, any defects in the system will be worked out.

The system to be installed has been successful at Yale and Purdue Universities. Each dormitory will have its own transmitter receiving WRMC signals along a telephone wire.

A previous request for financial aid from WRMC was rejected by the College on the advice of Benjamin Wissler, WRMC advisor.

Wissler stated to the CAMPUS that he was not opposed to the new system but was "distressed" that no experimental system had been set up as he had urged. Wissler maintained that had any interest been shown he would have advised President Stratton to grant the station further funds.

WRMC began broadcasting in 1949 with $40 worth of equipment and some army field wire belonging to Wissler. In 1950 the station was put off the air by the Federal Communications Commission for leakage of signals as far as Lake Dunmore. Shortly after, broadcasting was resumed, and the call letters WRMC were officially adopted.

Miss Rose E. Martin, Here 31 Years, Dies

Rose E. Martin, a member of the faculty since 1928, died suddenly yesterday morning at Porter Hospital.

A graduate of the New York State College for Teachers, Miss Martin received her master's degree from Middlebury in 1928 and joined the faculty later that year. Her appointment to a full professorship, effective July 1, was announced recently.

"The sudden death of Miss Martin has shocked the College community and left us with a feeling of deep and sincere sorrow," President Samuel S. Stratton said yesterday. "Middlebury and its people are richer for having had the benefit of her devotion and loyalty over the past years."

Tentative funeral arrangements call for a Requiem High Funeral Mass, to be sung at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Mary's Church.

Weekend Evaluation Was 'Exhilarating Experience'

President Praises Consultants' Work

By CATHERINE DALTON

The three-day scrutiny of the College curriculum which took place last weekend was summed up by President Stratton as "an exhilarating experience."

The four visiting educators, Jacques Barzun, James S. Cusick, M. Gilbert Burford and Hunter Kellenberger, who viewed the College, sampled faculty as well as student opinion in the course of the three days.

Much of the investigation followed issues and problems raised by the Student Educational Policy Committee questionnaire.

A banquet held Friday night for the consultants, the Educational Policy Committee and members of Phi Beta Kappa gave the consultants an opportunity to talk directly with students.

The group, which elected Barzun as chairman, plans to meet again some weekend next month to confer. They will then draft a final report based on the findings of their three-day study.

The weekend ought to "provide a much needed analytic criticism," Thomas H. Reynolds, dean of men, declared. Reynolds further stated in regard to definite results. "evaluation of curriculum is a long term affair; a three-day visit won't produce miracles."

Roberts Cites 'Intangible' Aspects of UA Legislation

By LYN EYSTER

The greatest achievement of the Undergraduate Association this year "is an intangible one which only succeeding years will prove," Joel Roberts '59, retiring chairman, summarized in a special report to The CAMPUS.

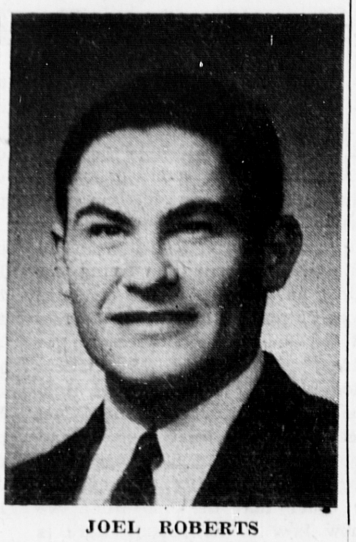
Government machinery was perfected to this end. Specific action included a recommendation to the faculty and administration that the Student Life Committee be reorganized, a safety lecture and a modified popular election for student government officers. SLC membership was changed in accordance with the recommendation, 700 students attended the lecture, and more than 1,000 voted in the election.

UA Efforts

Student response to UA efforts was further demonstrated by the class councils' Robert Frost Room project.

Revision of social legislation, making party registration dates more convenient for students and faculty, was also effected.

Financial assistance to various student groups was extended by the Council. A Kaleidoscope appeal for more money was granted; the activities fee was raised for other publications. UA also underwrote Junior Weekend and WRMC.



JOEL ROBERTS

At present the council is examining the method in which the student activities fee is used in an effort to guarantee its best utilization.

A further innovation this year was UA's direction of a new sys-

IFC Unanimously Approves Rules Change to Stop Initiation Stunts

"All pledging and initiation programs shall henceforth be conducted within the confines of the fraternity house and the grounds of the fraternity in question."

Legislation limiting initiation activities to fraternity property was passed unanimously by the Interfraternity Council Monday night. The action was triggered by an off-campus incident involving three freshman men.

Violation of the ruling, which requires IFC approval for any part of an initiation program held off fraternity premises, carries an automatic penalty of social probation for two months or the rest of the semester, whichever period is longer. The regulation takes effect immediately.

"Although the fraternity involved has been cleared of any responsibility for its pledges' actions," John Gilwee '60, IFC president, declared, "the Interfraternity Council unanimously agreed this legislation is necessary. Initiation activities may be harmful to the College and the fraternity system, as well as to the individual houses and men."

All houses and the pledges themselves had been warned by College and fraternity officers about assuming responsibility for their actions. It has been established that the freshmen were not told to bring anything back with them.

The three were arrested last weekend while on a voluntary pledge trip.

"Public activities of this nature, whether voluntary or required, are a serious detriment to the program of Middlebury as an academic institution; and if the fraternities insist on having them as a part of their regular program, they are seriously jeopardizing the privilege of maintaining themselves on this campus," Thomas H. Reynolds, dean of men, stated. "I thoroughly approve of the IFC's prompt action in ridding the campus once and for all of practices which have from time to time brought injury to individuals and harm to the reputation of the College."

The Abernethy lecture is an annual event in honor of Julian Willis Abernethy, donor of the Abernethy Collection, which is housed in Starr Library.

A Wider Margin

More than two years have passed since the constitution of a co-educational student government, replacing separate men's and women's organizations, was ratified "by a slim margin of the student body." (The CAMPUS, Jan. 10, 1957)

In these two years the Undergraduate Association has modified its original constitutional intent of providing "a controlling and directing force for every phase of undergraduate activity not directly administered by the faculty or college executive officers," becoming instead "a directing force for coordination and cooperation among chartered student activity and service groups" and "a central channel through which considered student opinion on undergraduate affairs may be recognized."

Despite this modification, in two years UA has come far toward realizing the constitutional purpose originally set it. Early in its development executive-council membership was enlarged to include the heads of every large or important student group, as well as elective representatives of non-chartered living groups. Students were thus granted representation by two, three, or even four votes, and the executive council became a body of proven campus leaders.

Empowered as the supreme executive and legislative body of the Undergraduate Association "to pass legislation pertaining to all purely student affairs which shall be binding on all students," the council has gradually begun to do so. Under the forceful leadership of Joel Roberts '59, the executive council this year has matured into a strong governmental agency.

For the first time in Middlebury's history, campus groups could — and did — turn to a student-controlled organization for financial aid. The council began an examination of the uses of the student activities fee, and continued its study of the possibility of instituting an academic honor system. Class councils were led to investigate their function on campus; composition of the Student Life Committee was modified on UA recommendation. UA assumed direction of freshman orientation and revised its social legislation.

As in the case of last month's safety lecture, the executive council has on occasion been forced to reexamine the responsibilities of a representative government. Although legislation to prevent the rapid passage of an ill-considered action has been enacted, the tendency of representatives to vote "aye" in an unthinking herd remains a potential threat to UA's effectiveness.

But encouraging signs of student support of UA expansion and consolidation of power have recently appeared. Nearly 80 percent of the student body voted in the campus-wide election of council officers. And a student recommendation that Chapel credit be granted for attendance at downtown churches has been channeled through the executive council.

As the executive council learns to govern, the student body is learning to be governed. The UA has taken important steps toward becoming an effective and truly representative student government.

FACULTY FORUM

'If You Want to Write, Write!' Clagett Urges Writing for Fun

By JOHN H. CLAGETT
Assistant Professor of English

Expository writing, which has as its function the transmission of intelligence from mind to mind, has an obvious place in a liberal-arts education. But what part can imaginative writing play in attaining the aims of this curriculum?

It can increase the student's enjoyment of literature, since through it he himself will have encountered the same problems met so successfully by the great writers of the world. It will increase his powers of observation, for the writer must know why people do things and how they look while they are doing them. He must hear conversation with the fidelity of a tape recorder, or he will be in trouble when his characters speak. Furthermore the individual can achieve self-expression in imaginative writing and self-expression is more and more realized to be an integral part of the full life.

SOME OF MY STUDENTS are interested in the possibility of writing for money. I would not recommend that any individual without an independent income leave college with the intention of supporting himself and a wife through writing. Still, it is fun, it is exciting, to till the mind as a farmer tills his field and have someone pay you for the product, even though in both cases it may be corn. There are many possibilities for the imaginative writer though competition will be intense wherever he turns.

Short stories are in a bad way, commercially. Television has largely taken their place. Television itself has a vast and unsatisfied demand for good, new material; yet at the same time it is strangely difficult to get a hearing for a TV script. Factual articles have a good market, though they are largely done on a semi-contract basis.

THE BEGINNER is wise to turn to the novel, for it is easier to sell a novel than a short story. Moreover, the novelist is completely free; all of the old restraints have been removed from his typewriter. He may write of whatever he wishes in whatever manner he chooses. If he finishes his novel, it will be read by someone. Publication is another matter, but publishers are always eager for a truly good book.

Above all, if you want to write, write! Only practice will bring excellence. Write for your own pleasure; then, having written, try and see if some editor won't pay you for it. The chances are he won't but you're only out a few cents' postage, some paper, and a number of hours spent in doing something you wanted to do anyway. It's cheaper than drinking beer, and who knows? You might really hit the jackpot.

Reiff Book Highlights 'Blue Skinned Hero-God' Krishna

Reiff Book Unique In Western World

By MARY JO AGETON

"Indian Miniature — The Rajput Painters." Robert Reiff. Art Treasures of Asia, Charles E. Tuttle Co., 1959. $2.50.

"The miniatures of India are like those of the West in that they are book size and often illustrated a text, but here the similiarity ends."

Thus begins a lucid discussion of a series of Rajput miniatures by Robert Reiff, since last fall a member of Middlebury's art department.

Reiff's book is unique, as it is the only one dealing with Indian art found in American collections. "American museums are late in collecting Indian art," Reiff explained, "so most of the books pertaining to it have used English, German or Indian collections as references."

Blue-Skinned Hero

Reiff's selections of plates for commentary deal mainly with a blue-skinned hero-god, Krishna, who "assumes a personality reflecting the more lovable aspects of human nature."

Krishna sports with the herdsmen and milkmaids of rural India. His exploits are mischievous: "As a child, he steals milk. As an adult he takes the clothes of the bathing milkmaids and then climbs a tree to get a better view."

However, Reiff explains that the Rajput painters followed in the Oriental tradition of form aligning human existence. This fact provides difficulties for the Western observer, accustomed to a glorified human element in art, as painted by Rembrandt or Goya. It is difficult for Westerners to see these flat-faced, almond-eyed figures as real people. We are hard put to it to understand these graceful miniatures as "sincere expressions of warmth and understanding of the heart."

Graphic Picture

However, Reiff's excellent introduction gives the Western observer a graphic picture of the background of which these charming little pictures are the result. His commentaries on the 12 plates included in the book are penetrating and reveal a thorough knowledge and understanding of the Oriental artistic expression.

The reader is willing to accept Reiff as his guide in this book to go through "the Indian village, into the country, to go along the river," where "one still may see the colorful processions of stately men and women who inspired the Rajput miniatures."

RAIN IN INDIA: A reproduction of a miniature from Indian Miniatures," Robert Reiff's new book.

Delegates Sent To Convention

Deborah Wetmore '60, newly-elected president of Women's Undergraduate Association, and Judith McCann '61 recently attended the annual meeting of the New England Women's Student Government Association.

Delgates from eight New England colleges and universities convened at Colby College to exchange ideas on how each school could more effectively run its student government.

Topics discussed included coordination of men's and women's student government, social honor system enforcement, apathy toward student government and freshmen orientation. Special emphasis was placed on the judicial branch of student government.

Other schools attending were Bates, Jackson and the Universities of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshore, Rhode Island and Vermont.

'Can Spring Be Far Behind?'

By DON FREEMAN
Exec. Ed., Ret.

And so, after a few weeks' forced absence, we return to the fray.

No doubt the four educators who arrived to evaluate our curriculum got a superb insight into the tempestuous flood-tide of intellectual curiosity inundating our midst as a result of the echoings from Chipman Hill, the golf course, Ripton Gorge, or wherever else the Oldest Established Permanent Floating (!) Frolic North of Manchester Center settled itself last weekend. And the Greek Galumphers were out in full force, thus proving conclusively to somebody or other that the one thing we know how to do around here is Waste Time.

WE ARE NOT decrying Peripatetic Partying. Far from it. Malt, grass, jolly-good-fellowship and the like are the Inalienable Rights of every American College Student in the Spring. Especially, antic reader, when Spring comes so cotton-pickin' Late. But timing, ladies and gentlemen, timing. Must we cavort so capriciously when our academic reputation is, so to speak, on trial? Out of these men's recommendations could well come a feeling that extra-curricular activities, i.e. fraternities, were playing perhaps too large a part in our idyll in Iceland.

TWENTY-THREE DAYS until comprehensives. Think THAT over. Pretty soon, under cover of night, the scoffers will be furtively sneaking around the Library with books concealed under their jackets. The first case of nervous prostration is scheduled to hit Forest East by tomorrow at 11 p.m. The word "clutched" will be employed in approximately 1,036 conversations from now until May 15.

The Thoreau-followers of the aggregation have reserved their rustic cabins; the anticipators have nailed down their chairs at Chez Pierre.

BUT . . . lest we forget . . . a certain group of gentlemen have also reserved tables, chairs, bluebooks, and all other necessaries. And when one is served in Munroe, he is not "shut off" at midnight.

No license required.

Krumm to Guest In Chapel Sunday

The Reverend John McGill Krumm will be the guest speaker at Vespers Sunday.

Rev. Krumm is presently chaplain of Windham House, a training center for Episcopal women workers in New York City. He is also national chairman of the Panel of Americans and on the Board of Directors of the Religious Education Association.

Rev. Krumm has been chaplain of Columbia University since 1952. He has served as vicar, curate and reader in churches in California and Connecticut. He was dean and rector of St. Paul's Cathedral in Los Angeles from 1948 to 1952.

A native of South Bend, Ind., he attended Pasadena Junior College and graduated from UCLA. He received a bachelor of divinity degree from Virginia Theological Seminary and a doctorate in church history from Yale.

Rev. Krumm is co-author of "Roadblocks to Faith" and has contributed to "Anglican Pulpit Today" and "Go Preach." He is also the author of "What's in a Name" and "Why I Am an Episcopalian."

Stratton Appoints Bigelow, Sherman to Administration

Two Middlebury graduates have been appointed to the College's administrative staff, President Samuel S. Stratton announced today.

Dorothy Bigelow '58 will be assistant director of admissions for women. Constance Sherman '53 will replace Mrs. Gordon Perine as alumnae secretary. Both appointments are effective July 1.

Miss Bigelow graduated from the Walnut Hill School in Natick, Mass., and from Middlebury last June. She has been associated with Filene's in Boston during the past year.

Miss Sherman is a graduate of the Northfield School for Girls and of Middlebury, class of 1953. She has been associated with the Worcester, Mass., Telegram and Gazette and is presently with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. She is president of the Worcester chapter of the Middlebury Alumnae Association.

In making the announcement, Stratton praised Mrs. Perine for her service during the past six years. He stated, "Under Mrs. Perine's direction, alumnae have become an integral and important factor in the life of the College. She has stimulated a greater interest in the formation of local units and in the creation of an active and interested alumnae group. Her interest and enthusiasm have meant much to both the alumnae and the College."

CONCESSIONS COMMITTEE

The Undergraduate Association recently voted to place the concessions committee under the Women's and Men's Undergraduate Associations as two separate committees. The arrangement will be more workable than the present one because the committees can be more closely directed, Joel Roberts, UA chairman, explained.

Spring had come. The front door of The Vermont Book Shop was open wide to admit the balmy air. Robins flew in and out, their merry chirping adding a festive note to the hum of the browsers' mumbling.

Before long, the screen door would be hung and these cheery feathered creatures would be denied admittance, but the screen door always is left in the book shop's cellar over two sawhorses as long as possible. It makes a comfortable spot for Mr. Blair's morning and afternoon naps.

Spring had come. Several college students were browsing peacefully, among them a willowy blond girl with flashing blue eyes, and faded tennis shoes to match.

"Mr. Blair!" she called out in a lovely, bird-like voice.

Startled because he thought for a moment one of the robins was calling him, Mr. Blair dropped his pipe, but by the time his clerks had brushed off the sparks from his well-cut grey flannels, he was once again his business-like, albeit kindly, self again.

"Oh, Mr. Blair, I'm sorry I frightened you. You probably were thinking of something very profound and I interrupted. I only wanted to ask you what Vermont books you recommend. I want some for mommy and daddy."

Mr. Blair — who had been thinking deeply, trying to compute the number of minutes until his lunch hour — enthusiastically replied, "We have quite a few excellent ones, child. Here, 'The Green Mountains of Vermont' is a good one, and very entertaining to boot. It tells of the phases of Vermont's history that I think no other book covers so well — the mining (gold, iron, copper), the large (and now almost non-existent) resorts around the state's mineral springs, the building of the plank roads and turnpikes, the beginning of skiing in Vermont — so much of our background and told so well. It's by W. Storrs Lee, who used to be known as 'Mr. Middlebury'. He also wrote 'Town Father', the biography of Gamaliel Painter, which they would enjoy.

"And they'd love 'Vermont Dairy' by Viola C. White. Miss White has been tramping the back roads around Middlebury for years and has put her wisdom, wit and great knowledge of nature into a delightful diary. The book is full of Middlebury places and people — Doc Cook and Pardon Tillinghast and scores of others pop in and out — so that years from now, you'll read 'Vermont Diary' and feel you are back in Middlebury again.

"And there's the 'Treasury of Vermont Life' with its many, many beautiful illustrations, and Dorothy Canfield Fisher's nostalgic "Memories of Arlington, Vermont' and the wryly humorous books of Walter Hard's. We published two of his, you know, and they've been tremendously popular. Wonderful hospital gifts for one thing — the pieces are short and funny and seem to appeal to almost everyone."

Mr. Blair now was out of breath, for he is not used to talking very much. And so we'll leave our friends, the student avidly looking through the books on the Vermont table, Mr. Blair lighting his pipe and looking peculiarly cross-eyed, and two robins building a nest on the top of the biography section.

Yacht Club Reorganizes; Miss Hogan 2nd at Tufts

By LINDA GROSS

The Middlebury Yacht Club has chosen its officers for the 1959-60 season, and plans to enter six regattas during the course of the Spring.

The new officers are: Commodore Joseph Cusimano '61; Vice-Commodore Patricia Joy '61; Racing Captain John Emory '60; Home Secretary Linda Cross '62; and Racing Secretary Polly Hogan '62.

The racing season has already gotten underway with several races at Tufts during the Spring vacation. On March 28, in the Tufts College Ice Bucket Meet, Polly Hogan and Bruce McIntyre, co-skippers, raced in 35-mile-per-hour winds, with boats capsizing all around them and mainsheets freezing, to tie for first place with Harvard. A match race was sailed, and Middlebury emerged in first place.

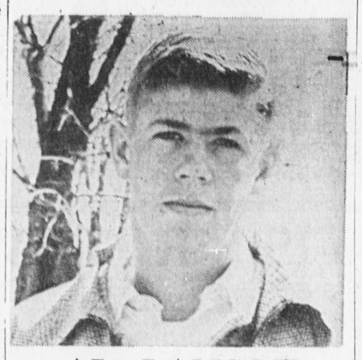
March 30 was the Tufts College Vacation Bowl. The race was scheduled in two divisions of seven boats each, with finals consisting of the top two in each division. Polly Hogan sailed her way to first place in the A division, but in the finals Amherst and Andover squeezed into the first two positions with Middlebury coming in third.

Miss Hogan again raced on April 2nd, this time in the Tufts Women's College Cup, against such formidable opponents as Jackson, Pembroke, Wheaton, and the University of Connecticut. Against the nine boats, Middlebury copped two first places, four seconds, and one fourth. Despite a disqualification in one race, the Panther sailors received a total of 63½ points to place second behind Tufts in overall competition.

Middlebury, skippered by Bud Cusimano and Howie Mettee, placed fourth in the varsity regatta at the Tufts Hexagonal Meet last Sunday. Entries from Tufts, Holy Cross, and MIT topped the Panther contingent, while WPI took fifth.

The Panther cubs fared better, placing second in the frosh event, four points behind a mixed high school aggregation called The Schools. Middlebury freshmen boats, skippered by Polly Hogan and Louis Spitz, outsailed its college competition of Bowdoin, Tufts, MIT and WPI.

'60 Ski Captain



AL LAMSON

Al Lamson, a junior from Randolph, Vermont, has been elected captain of the ski team for 1959-60. Lamson, a three-year letterman, was chosen at a meeting late last week to succeed Pete Lahdenpera as leader of the Panther boardmen.

Lamson reached his peak this past season, winning skimeister awards at the Williams and Middlebury Carnivals, and taking a fifth in the skimeister rankings for the NCAA's at Colorado.

In his freshman year, Al placed second in the skimeister poll at the Middlebury Carnival. He took fifth places in the cross-country and jumping, a performance equal to his 1959 Nordic output.

This past year, Lamson showed distinct improvement over his sophomore form. On his way to the skimeister award at the Middlebury Carnival, Al placed second in the downhill event and third in the slalom, taking second in both the Alpine and Nordic combined. He was a member of the National Downhill Championship team that the Panthers brought back from Winter Park two weeks ago.

Panther Track Outlook Dim; Sucess Hinges on Freshmen

The track team has taken to the boards for workouts and time trials in workouts for its opener with Williams at Porter Field on April 25. Prospects for the coming season, according to Coach Stub Mackey, appear "not very bright" due to heavy losses of last year's lettermen for a varied assortment of reasons.

The Panther cindermen seem to be the strongest in the weight events, for they will be counting heavily on freshmen and similar unknown quantities in the running events. Here is an event-by-event breakdown of the relative talent with which Coach Mackey is attempting to build into a winning combination:

SPRINTS - The loss of Captain Rich Miner and Sumner Webber leaves Roger Miller as the only returning letterman in the 100 and 220. Besides senior Miller, junior Jim Hansen and freshmen Mike Sevareid and D'Arcy Marsh will be available for dash duty.

HURDLES - Here again, Miner's absence will tell in the scoring column. Sophomore Tom Consolino is the only holdover from last year, and he is heavily banked on to come through. Freshmen John Sinclair and Phil Toomey will be running the highs and lows, respectively.

MIDDLE DISTANCES - In the 440, Mackey will be working with beginning freshmen and untested upper classmen, since Charlie Owens and Gene Sapadin are foregoing the sport this Spring. The 880 has been left vacant by the loss of Spider Redman and Dave Symanski, but a host of frosh prospects look to fill the gap. Steve Green and Phil Toomey, two highly touted runners are joined by Ron Brown, Charlie Woodard, and John Pribram in this task.

DISTANCES - Three fine milers, Redman, Pete Hoyt and Dick Berglund, are not returning this year. Hoyt and Berglund also ran the two-mile. However, Jack McEwan returns, and may round into shape for the longer event. Freshman Green shows excellent promise in the mile, having run it in under 4:40 in his pre-college days. Steve turned in a 4:40 mile on the chilly boards this winter.

HIGH JUMP - This event is a real question mark. The only jumper in sight is junior Don Chaffee, out for the squad for the first time. Two consistent high jumpers of the last season in Owens and Bob Jacobson are gone.

POLE VAULT - Captain Pete Aldrich heads the list of vaulters, which includes sophomore Rick Cahoon and freshman Pete Steinle.

BROAD JUMP - Juniors Hansen and Ed Kozlowski head the field here, with freshman Marsh also a possible entrant.

WEIGHTS - The loss of Brad Dunbar, who tied the school record in the shot in his freshman year, will definitely hurt. But big Ted Parker returns for a final crack at the Panther weight marks (he is currently co-holder of the shot record), and he will be backed by footballers Dick Atkinson and Herb Thomas. This threesome should also carry the brunt of the load in the discus and javelin events.

Freshman Jon Noel will be backing up in the discus and javelin, while sophomore Bob Sarajian, a consistent place-winner last year, returns to the spear toss. Junior Bruce Burnham is the lone returnee to the hammer throw, a fact which caused Coach Mackey to wryly quip: "We have one hammer thrower and three hammers."

Mackey stated that prospects weren't as bright as he had hoped they would be, due to the number of last year's performers who are in school but have foregone track for other activities. "However," concluded Stub, "We expect to show up for all our meets."

Golfers Lack '59 Practice

On April 24th, a relatively inexperienced Middlebury golf team will open its season against RPI. Gone from last year's squad are Pete Bostwick, Bob Rice, Bob Batal, and Captain John Keresztesy. The three remaining regulars who will form the nucleus of this year's club are Captain Paul Wise, Len Faxon, and Mike Closson. The remaining positions will be filled by four of the following: Ron Stubing, George Geckle, Pete Batelle, Bill Ryan, Bruce MacIntyre, Phil Latreille, and three or four freshman prospects.

Lack of practice has hampered the golfers for the most part so far. The Rutland Country Club will be open some time this week, enabling Coach Duke Nelson to get a better look at the prospects. The outcome of the ten-match schedule will depend on how well the newcomers are able to do.

Lacrosse Team To Face Union

Middlebury lacrosse fans will get their only chance of the year to see the Panthers in action this Saturday afternoon, April 18. Coach Joe Morrone's stickmen, led by co-captains John Montor and Don Taylor, face off against Union at 2 p. m. on Lang Field. The encounter is the sole home lacrosse contest of the six-game 1959 schedule.

SNEAKS 'N CLEATS

by Lee Leonard

If you take a hasty glance around fraternity row on any of these warm, sunny afternoons, you'll get the general impression that Spring has finally arrived in these green hills for good (at least until the next snowfall). Meanwhile, makeshift frisbees and softballs fly gracefully over the Greeks' lawns as the bretheren emerge from their winter hibernation to catch a few rays.

Who knows? With a little enthusiasm and a lot of encouragement from the phone company, we might soon see some of the brothers rushing out of the house for a quick game of telephone-booth squash between lunch and 1:30 classes. This pastime might foster intramural competition to the point of a Bush League version of phone-box cram. No doubt Red Kelly would be more than pleased to add this amusing spectator sport to the already impressive list of diversions for the high school has-beens.

Signs of Spring are also blooming down in the southeast corner of the campus. The baseball team is rounding into shape under the watchful eye of Bobo Sheehan, who is searching the ranks for a third baseman and an extra pitcher, among other things.

The lacrosse team has become either tired or dizzy from running around the dismal oval which encompasses the Field House, and the stickmen have moved out to the greener pastures of Lang Field to conduct their drills. The first and final home game of the year is just around the corner, and for Coach Joe Morrone, the days are going faster than ice cream at a kindergarten birthday party.

The Panther netters are brandishing their tennis racquets with a fervor on the north end of the campus, and they should be in fine trim for their April 25th curtain-raiser. Coach Lockwood Merriman has just about pared his squad to the limit.

Back at the Field House, Duke Nelson's linksmen are stamping impatiently at the starting gate until the water disappears from the Rutland Country Club. But out on the board track, Stub Mackey is putting his trackmen through their paces.

Poor Stub, bemoaning the fact that Middlebury's potential four-minute milers and seven-foot high jumpers are not about to compete under the blue and white banner, appears about as optimistic as a senior going into the second semester with 79 non-D credits.

See you in a telephone booth!

BUSH LEAGUE

After a couple of quick warmup games, the Bush League softball race broke away from the starting gate yesterday, and from the looks of things, there may be a lot of big upsets and deflated egos when the pack comes puffing across the finish line next month. On the basis of last year's performances and scattered reports from the various backyard training camps, here are Rumple's picks for the '59 season in the order in which we think they'll finish.

ATO — With Dean Beyer on the mound, Sam Hoyt playing most of the infield, and Tiger Ted Buhl available for pinchhitting duties, it looks like another victory for the perrenial champion Taus.

DU — It looks like the bridemaid's role again for the "Boy, we'll be glad to see Berwick graduate" boys. The clash between these top teams figures to be the feature attraction of the season.

SPE — With "Seed" Southard on the mound and Phil Latreille swinging a big bat, it looks like a third place finish for "Grantland" Twitchell's good hit, no field club.

CP — A solid prepster team led by Dave Collin and John Rogers seems to be good enough to get by the rest of the field after losing to the top three.

PKT — In between trips to Poultney, Graham Nye's juggernaut appears to be good enough to float by the Dekes and nail down a first division birth. In an interesting side show here, we pick the Pikities to triumph over the latter and dethrone them as champions of the Green Mountain League.

DKE — Number one among the also-ran on the strength of slugging first sacker Russ Leng and the gazelle like fielding of big Chuck Rand, this club appears to be the class of the second division.

KDR — Don Chafee's young club, bolstered by a fine crop of rookies, may pull a few surprises before the season ends, but it looks like a second division finish for the Rancheros.

ZP — Despite a 6-3 record last year, graduation left the Zetes without a pitcher. If they can find one somewhere, this veteran team may pull a few mild upsets before the campaign ends.

ASP — Depending mainly on a large crop of Freshmen, Bob Pearl's club seems to be a year away from being a first division challenger.

TC — In a rebuilding year, this team depends almost entirely on the fine play of Dick Gariepy but we don't think he can do it himself.

ROTC — Coach Preble predicts a banner year for the cadre club, but the loss of Goldsmith and Veazy cripples this team. Even though they plan to sign up a couple of faculty ringers for the duration, we don't see Saunders, Turner and Co. winning too many battles during the current campaign.

Student Response Big Factor for UA Legislation

tem of freshmen orientation, in cooperation with Blue Key and Mortar Board. Student government sponsored a fall jazz concert to augment freshman activities.

Better coordination between the chartered campus groups was the purpose behind legislation establishing a central file of the constitutions of all such organizations. This action was also intended to encourage student organizations to reconsider their functions and objectives.

A committee organized last spring to investigate the possibility of instituting an academic honor system was reinstated. The results of the present study will be presented to students and faculty in the future.

Negative Side

On the negative side, a UA attempt to publish an orientation booklet for freshman ended without result. No positive presentation has yet been made by the honor system committee. The men's and women's concessions committees were removed from UA control and placed under MUA and WUA supervision.

But "we feel that we have made the student aware that he must see his own special interests in relation to the whole body of knowledge and the total pattern of society here on the campus, in order that he might be able to distinguish between means and ends, to examine generally accepted ideas, opinions and prejudices, with the result that the student is provided with an opportunity to realize and develop his own capabilities and responsibilities as a citizen and as a human being," Roberts concluded.

Mid-East Alumni Sponsor Room

Middlebury alumni and alumnae in the Middle East have raised one-third of their quota of $25,000 for the planned Saudi-Arabian Seminar Room in the Starr Library addition.

The room will be "equipped and decorated in a manner conducive to stimulating interest and research in Saudi-Arabian and Mid-East affairs."

The room will contain an area for Middlebury's collection of books concerned with the Middle East and display space for rare archaeological materials given to the College by Karl S. Twitchell of Byram, Conn.

CANTERBURY CONFERS

Members of the Canterbury Association will discuss campus life at a state-wide conference in Burlington this weekend.

The conference topic is "The Role of the Christian on the College Campus."

Officers of the association for 1959-60 are Derek Peske '60, president; Wendy Ellis '61, vice president; Melinda Geldert '61 and Ann Marshall '62, secretaries, and Robert Millett '60, treasurer.

INFIRMARY HOURS

Students are reminded that College infirmary hours are 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

Arthur P. Wuth will deliver a lecture on Christian Science entitled "The Way to Gain True Safety and Security" at 4:30 p. m. on April 22 in Mead Chapel.

Wuth is on nationwide tour as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He has previously served on the Christian Science Committee on Publication for the State of Colorado.

HARRY LAWTON, JR., received his B.S. in Physics at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1950, joining General Electric that same year. He received an M.S. degree in Management Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1958.

"Long-range programs are important —for both men and missiles"

"In a company dedicated to research and development, a young man's opportunities to learn more — to increase his technical skills—are almost unlimited," says 31-year-old Harry Lawton, Jr., a General Electric engineer engaged in the development of inertial guidance and fire-control systems for ballistic missiles. "And to maintain America's scientific leadership, we're going to need all the technical training and skills we can produce.

"An important aspect of my job at General Electric is the continuing opportunity to learn more. I've been able to continue my education in the company's Physics Program for college graduates. And I also have the advantage of association with top technical experts in my work. Opportunities like this have helped me realize that long-range programs are important — for both men and missiles."

Harry Lawton is one of several hundred technical graduates who are devoting their skills to the development of 14 government missile projects to which General Electric is a major contributor. More and more our scientific progress and our national security depend on men like this — men who bring high qualifications to their work and who continue their quest for knowledge, both on and off the job.

General Electric believes that individual initiative and career growth are essential to America's continued technological leadership. To this end, the company encourages all of its employees — including more than 30,000 college graduates — to develop to their fullest capabilities by providing opportunities for increasing knowledge and working skills.
